New Staff Members

When school opened in August, there were ten new faculty and staff members. Faculty members were welcomed in Industrial Arts, English, Home Economics, Mathematics, Special Education, Guidance, and Business.

There were some changes within the staff. Mr. Ligon Drane and Mr. Lou Caporale, both vice-principals, switched areas of responsibility. Mr. John Fox became the new chairman of the Industrial Arts department.

Two new faculty members were not really new. Mr. Mike Clouse, who graduated from Manual in 1966, returned to teach in the English department, and Miss Mazie Marlin returned to Manual as a COE Advisor.

Using a protractor, Mr. Robert Evans, math teacher, helps Renita Rogers measure an angle.

Giving individual attention to James Langley and Anita Briggs is English teacher Miss Melody Ingle.

New COE Advisor Miss Mazie Marlin shows that she is happy to be in her new position.

Hoping to transfer her enthusiasm to the students, Freshman Guidance Counselor, Mrs. Janet Huck, helps David Milburn with his schedule.

Mrs. Sharon DeLong, new home economics teacher, goes over an assignment with James Harrell, Charles Robinson, and Lisha Galyan.

In his industrial arts class Mr. William Bauer helps Jason Walls and Tom Lantis.

American trackster Florence Griffith-Joyner is elated at winning another gold medal.

Team Performs in Hoosier Dome

On Friday night on August 19, hundreds of IPS football players and coaches were converging on the Hoosier Dome to enjoy a "first" that they would not soon forget.

For the first time, the IPS high school Jamboree was played at the Dome. For the players, it was a chance of a lifetime. "Playing the game in the Hoosier Dome was hard to believe! I felt like a professional out there — like nothing could go wrong! My touchdown was unbelievable. I didn't know how to react; it all seemed unreal. The team felt as if there was nothing we couldn't do. The dome made each of us play better," commented Wayne Elsey, senior.

Several members of the Indianapolis Colts — Gary Hogeboom, Eric Dickerson, Dean Biasucci, and Barry Kraus — were on hand for the special game.

The team won team T-shirts for selling the most tickets to the Dome Jamboree. In the game, a seven-quarter round-robin game, the Skins opponents were Washington and Tech.

Cheerleaders Lisa Otero, Stacy Morse, and Deanna Long enjoy meeting John Brandes, Colts tight-end.

Quarterback Rich Majors, senior, fakes to James Cole, junior, on a triple option against Tech.

The seven IPS football teams take part in pre-game festivities at the Dome Jamboree.

Sophomore Charles Roberson keeps the ball and runs up field on the triple option against Washington.

Senior James Stockton catches a play-action pass from quarterback Rich Majors, senior, for fifteen yards.

Original Drama

After more than six weeks of writing, re-writing, designing sets, sewing costumes, and learning lines and music, the casts were ready to perform in the 1988 Redskin Revue. Under the direction of Production Coordinator Mr. Fred Bennett, three original student-written acts were presented at two performances. The theme for the evening was "Great Lovers."

"Casanova," written by Rob-in Spalding and directed by Niki Passios, told of the romantic contest between Raoul Amore and the great, great, great nephew of Casanova. This act won best choreography. Jenni Timbs was the best female lead and Reggie Tucker was the best supporting female. Act sponsors were Mrs. Kim McFall and Mrs. Carolyn Borer.

"Clark vs. Clark" was written by Erica Burrin, Karrie Kelly, and Ervin Barron. Karrie

Kelly was the director. In this act, Lois Lane, Clark Kent's girlfriend, got a crush on Clark Gable. This act won best female lead for Peggy Scott and best supporting male performer for Greg Wiley. Tim Wiley was named best male vocalist. Miss Chris Wagner and Mrs. Gayla Evans-Allen helped with this act.

Sandy Hawley wrote and directed "The Big Kiss." In this play, evil Thorax captured Tria, a fair maiden, and held her prisoner until she was rescued by Cary and his friends. Tony Adams was named best male lead and Tina Hafer was best female vocalist. This act had the best chorus line, best costumes, and was best rehearsed.

Singing the act finale are Jeff Soper, junior, Jenni Timbs and Jane Rippy, seniors, and Michelle Harlow, junior.

Juniors Erica Burrin and Heidi Thomas join Senior Jenni Moles to clown around behind director Karrie Kelly.

Cast members Reggie Tucker and Jenni Timbs, seniors, enjoy a pleasant visit in the town.

Junior Prom

The Time of My Life

After at least a month of preparation, juniors were ready for their prom. Dressed in their finest attire, the couples whirled around the dance floor at the Sherwood Club on May 14. It was truly an evening to be remembered.

The Junior Prom has always been one of the biggest events in one's high school years. The theme for the evening was "I've Had the Time of My Life" and the prom colors were mauve and wine. Decorations included balloons and crepe paper streamers. In the center of each table was a single rosebud in a vase. Couples received a souvenir glass as a memento of their special evening.

As the couples arrived, they were officially introduced by Mr. John Roberts, Industrial Arts teacher. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the king and queen, James Stockton and Missy Logsdon.

The magic and splendor of the evening provided a lifetime of memories for those who attended.

Prom Candidates: Paul Ditchley, Paul Treadwell, Wayne Elsey, James Stockton, Missy Logsdon, K-C McCombs, Kelly Williams, and Stacy Morse.

Showing their versatility on the dance floor are James Stockton, William Brickley, John Flandermeyer, Paul Treadwell and Joey Sloan.

Mr. Roberts announces the arrival of Robert Downey and Susan Smith at the Sherwood Club.

Prom couples slow dance to the hit song "Always".

Sitting in the cheerleaders dunk tank, K-C McCombs, senior, waits to be dunked.

Carnival goers find many things to do at the 1988 Pow Wow.

Games, Food, Fun

The Pow Wow, an all-school carnival, is a long-standing tradition. Sponsored by the PTO, the Pow Wow is a sure sign of spring.

This year's Pow Wow saw some changes. One change was in the time schedule. The Pow Wow began at 4:00 P.M. and ended at 8:00 P.M. The earlier time allowed students to enjoy the activities right after school. The PTO served food, such as nachos, barbecue, and hot dogs. They also had a candy booth for those who couldn't resist such sumptuous treats.

Also new this year was a Dunk Tank. This was one of the most popular booths. Sponsored by the cheerleaders, the Dunk Tank gave students a chance to dunk their teachers as well as their friends. Roines sponsored the Nerf Ball Throw, another new attraction.

Held in and around the gymnasium, the Pow Wow included some old favorites. Masoma offered "Squirt the Flirt," using the pledges as targets of water pistols. The Jail was operated by Thespians, who spent the evening rounding up "prisoners." Bingo lovers could play for prizes at the Student Affairs Board booth.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the king and queen. This year's king was James Stockton and the queen was Michelle LeSure.

Whether it was a game of skill or a game of luck, the Pow Wow had something for everyone. The proceeds of the evening were shared by the clubs and the PTO.

With great enthusiasm, Mr. Fred Bennett, English teacher, squirts Masoma pledges Nikie Passios and Angie Bills, seniors.

Art Club members Brenda Maidwell and Shelley Key paint designs on the face of a fellow student.

Raines sponsor Mr. Mike Swinford, science teacher, takes his turn at the Nerf-A-Teacher Booth.

At the A-V Club Booth, Jason Broadstreet, Gaku Furuichi, and Kevin Benefiel are ready to custom make buttons.

At the Plant Booth, Mrs. Janet Weaver, business teacher, watches as Yolanda Price makes her selection.

Dr. Ray Hawkins of Eli Lilly addresses the students at the National Honor Society Induction Ceremony.

Principal Mr. Gene Austin accepts a new copy machine from Lilly representative Mr. Tom Wallace as Mrs. Sarah Bogard looks on.

Academic award recipients enjoy a luncheon compliments of Eli Lilly, Partner in Education.

Students Benefit From Partnership

In March, 1980, under the sponsorship of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, Manual and Eli Lilly and Company were paired as part of the Partners in Education program. Since that partnership was formed, Manual students and teachers have benefited greatly.

Mrs. Sarah Bogard, home economics teacher, and Mr.

Robert Bales, an Eli Lilly representative, and several teachers were responsible for planning the activities for the year.

In September the Humanities class went to Clowes Hall to see the ballet "Giselle." The tickets were provided by Eli Lilly.

The school honored Eli Lilly employees at a home basketball game on January 6.

Several Eli Lilly representatives came to school to present a program for science students called "What Does a Scientist Do?" Seniors in science classes first visited Lilly's where they received instruction they could take back to school to share with the underclassmen.

In February, the juniors and seniors who earned academic letters, sweaters, and chevrons were treated to lunch at Eli Lilly. Manual's 50-Year Club paid for half the cost of the letter sweaters, and Eli Lilly and Company paid for the letters and chevrons.

Biology students visit a variety of displays at the program sponsored by Eli Lilly. The purpose of the program was to help students learn what a scientist did.

Academic letter sweater recipients Eileena Coates, Yolanda Vaughn, Ken Hanna, juniors, and Steven Reid, senior, try their sweaters on for size.

SHOW TIME

Dr. Robert Hignite discusses drug abuse with his drug awareness class.

Senior Charles Hicks takes the blood pressure of Sholonda Parrish, sophomore, at a science program in the Media Center.

Gary Hillard shows his knowledge of advanced math by solving an equation at the board.

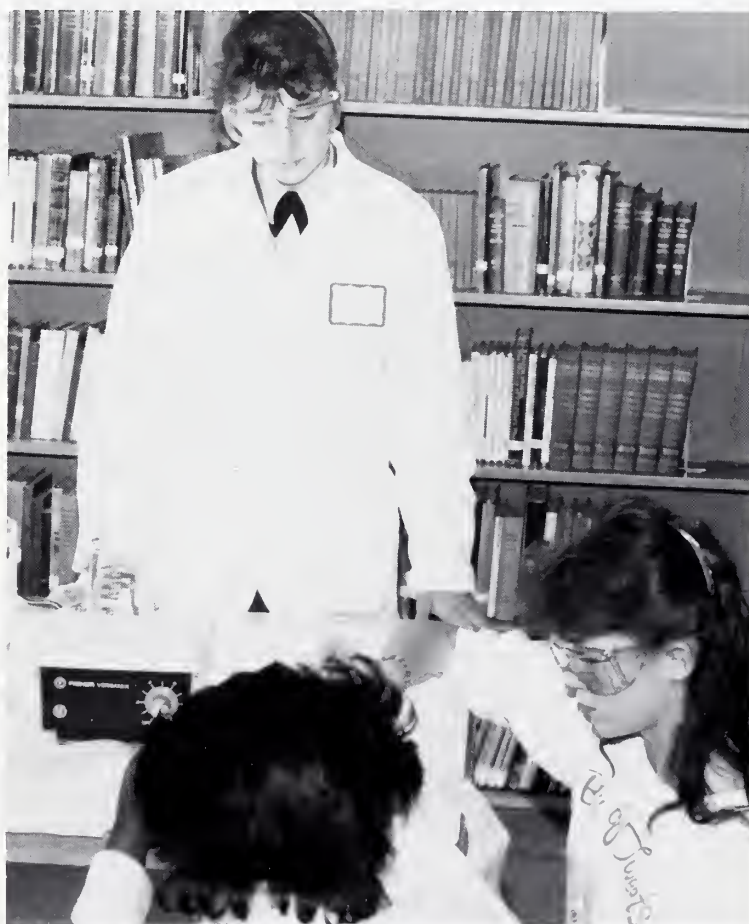

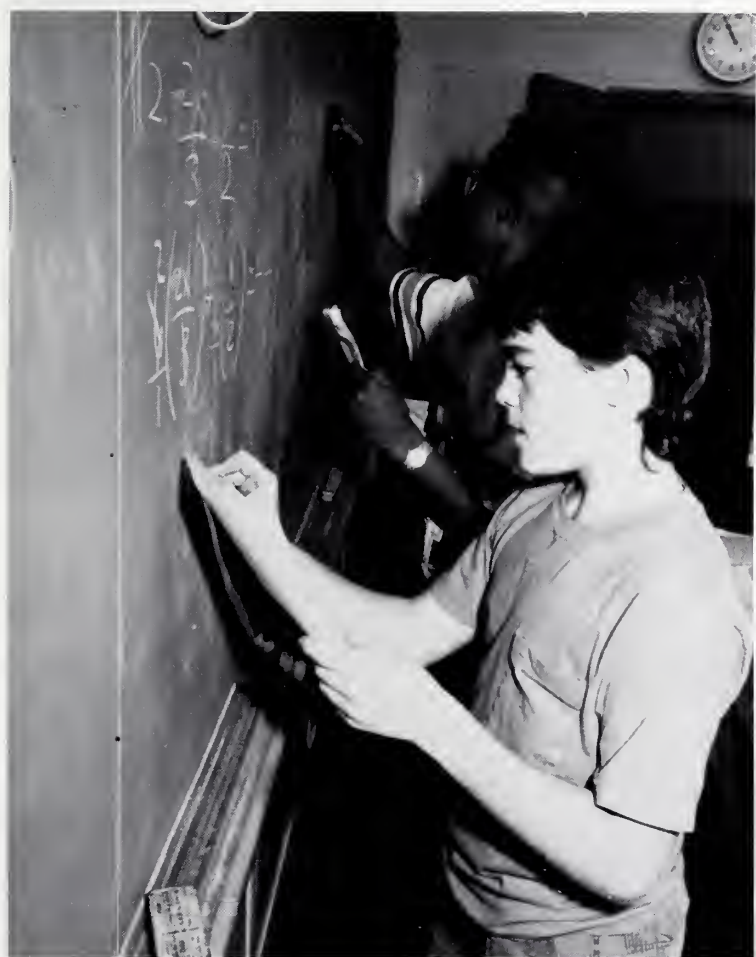

Academic Classes

Academic classes are those that challenge the students to develop skills in the abstract. Both the Science Department and the Math Department offered the basic, required classes, as well as electives for those who were up to the challenge.

The head of the Science Department was Mr. Harold Baumer. The required classes in this department included biology and earth science. The elective classes were chemistry and physics. Those students who planned to go on to college were encouraged to take both of these classes.

The head of the Math Department was Mr. Bill Fisher. Like the Science Department, there were several required math classes. Since two years of math was required for graduation, most students were enrolled in at least one math class. The classes included basic math, introduction to algebra and algebra. The advanced classes were geometry, Algebra 3 and 4, and advanced math. There was also a computer math class for students interested in learning computer programming.

Seniors Shari Burgett and Julie Taylor take the blood pressure of a willing participant.

Senior Lanette Dickinson assumes the role of scientist for a day at a Lilly sponsored science program.

Biology teacher Mr. Charles Crawford helps Cindy Walker, sophomore, with an assignment.

Under the guidance of visiting artist Kevin Wilson, Senior Cleo Nguyen uses an airbrush.

Adding just the right shade, Junior Rhonda Mason works on a colorful watercolor design for art class.

Future Artists

The Art Department was a very vital part of school, perhaps more this year than ever before. More students were active in art related activities. In fact, Mrs. Kay Clay, the Art Department chairman, said, "A lot of students are interested in art."

The achievement of art students was recognized in a variety of ways throughout the year. Cindy Reed, Rhonda Coley, Terri McIntyre, Leandra Averitte, and Brenda Maidwell participated in an exhibit at the Indianapolis Public Schools' Education Center. Tony Adams, a junior, submitted his art work in the Scholastic Arts Competition. His work was selected to be sent to Kiev, Russia in an exchange program. Scott Bow's design was chosen for the Indianapolis Public Schools' Christmas card.

Mrs. Terry Clark's ceramic classes got experience working with the table, coil, slab combination, clay sculptures, and making human figures in clay. Mrs. Clark remarked, "The students enjoy creating their own hand-built construction as well as dreaming about when they become wheel workers in advanced ceramic design. Hopefully, there will be some dreams come true."

Showing her creativity, Stacey Anness, junior, adds some new colors to her watercolor design.

Required Classes

Since all students must earn eight credits in English in order to graduate, the English Department was the largest department in school. Under the guidance of Mrs. Toni Hammer, English Department Chairman, students were challenged to perform at their best.

In addition to the required English classes, the department offered several electives. They included Speech, Humanities, and Journalism. The two mini-courses in the department were World of Fantasy and Science Fiction.

The department also offered Histlish, which was a combination of English and History. Mrs. Marilyn Dever taught this class for juniors. The many creative projects in this class challenged the students' imagination.

In September, the Humanities class attended the ballet, GISELLE. The tickets were furnished by Mr. Robert Bales and Eli Lilly, Manual's Partner-In-Education. Mr. Fred Bennett taught the Humanities class.

There were two additions to the English department staff this year. Mr. Michael Clouse, a Manual graduate, returned to teach Developmental Reading as a part of the At-Risk program. Miss Liz Copher joined the staff in December.

Throughout the year, much emphasis was placed on preparing the students for the I-STEP test. In the fall the freshmen and juniors took the written expression portion of the test.

At the Parents-In-Touch conference, Mr. Fred Bennett discusses a student's progress with a concerned parent.

Senior Tim Wiley uses gestures to make his point in Speech class. The class gained experience by using the mini-aud.

Seniors Shari Burgett, Deanna Long, Chris Messer, K-C McCombs, and Mike Chitwood listen to a debate by their classmates.

Students in Miss Dorothy Powell's English class discuss a short story they have read.

In Mr. Dennis Jackson's English class, seniors Jerald Richardson and LaKina Curry present their side in a debate.

Business Department Offers Variety

The business education curriculum had three purposes. It developed skills so that students could secure part or full-time work. It prepared students to understand and conduct personal business. It also provided background for students who wished to continue training after graduation.

A wide variety of courses was available to serve these purposes. Some business education courses were specifically designated as vocational courses. They included typing, accounting, consumer education, office machine calculation, and records management.

The entire business education curriculum was elective. Mrs. Janet Weaver, department head, said, "I think the business courses are all practical and very helpful regardless of what one will do in their future."

C.O.E. and marketing education classes gave students school credit for their jobs. A few of the students worked together, but most of them worked at different places. C.O.E. was mainly for those students who wanted office jobs.

Marketing was mainly for students who worked at retail stores, restaurants, and grocery stores. Senior Lynetta Austin commented, "I think marketing is enjoyable and it will help me and others get the jobs we want."

Solving problems in Machine Calculation is Latasha Bynam, freshman.

Chester Fox, freshman, checks the results of a computation in Machine Calculation, a mini-course.

Senior Rhonda Rutledge works on an assignment in accounting class.

Juniors Cindy Sloan, Sonja Yunt, and Eileena Coates transcribe a letter in shorthand class.

In an office-like setting, Junior Kara Kempton works on an assignment for typing.

Keeping her eyes on her copy, Cindy Crabtree, sophomore, strives for speed and accuracy.

Resource Centers

The computer lab and the Media Center were two of the busiest spots in school. Students could work at their own pace on materials that were of special interest to them.

Mrs. Janet Milenbaugh, computer specialist, said that there was a major upgrading in the computer lab this year. The computers now have 3½-inch disc drives which make it possible to use any software for IBM computers. Although this was very expensive, it gave students more materials to work with.

Computers were used throughout the school. Guidance counselors, deans, secretaries, accounting office clerk, social worker and department heads all used computers on a daily basis. Because of increased knowledge and interest in computers, a new computer club was formed this year.

Like the computer labs, the Media Center was used every day by many teachers and students. Mrs. Mary Rabourn was the director of the Media Center. Mrs. Shirley Lynch was the librarian, and Mrs. Trudy Waggoner was the media clerk.

Students could go to the Media Center to study, to work with computers, or to browse through the latest issues of their favorite magazines. The Media Center classroom was used to show videos.

The Media Center staff was busy this year trying to update its materials. Many old books were discarded. They were replaced by more up-to-date books.

For students who worked in the media center or for those who just had an interest in the media, there was an A-V Club, sponsored by Mrs. Rabourn.

To learn how he measures up, Junior Doug Warren takes the PSAT in the Media Center.

Trying out a new computer program is Junior Bobby Smith.

Juniors take the PSAT to help them determine their future.

To locate some reference books, Kim Rosa, sophomore, uses the card catalog in the Media Center.

MANUAL WELCOMES YOU

Signs such as this make students want to come to the Media Center.

Sophomore Sherry Howington is intensely involved in a new computer program.

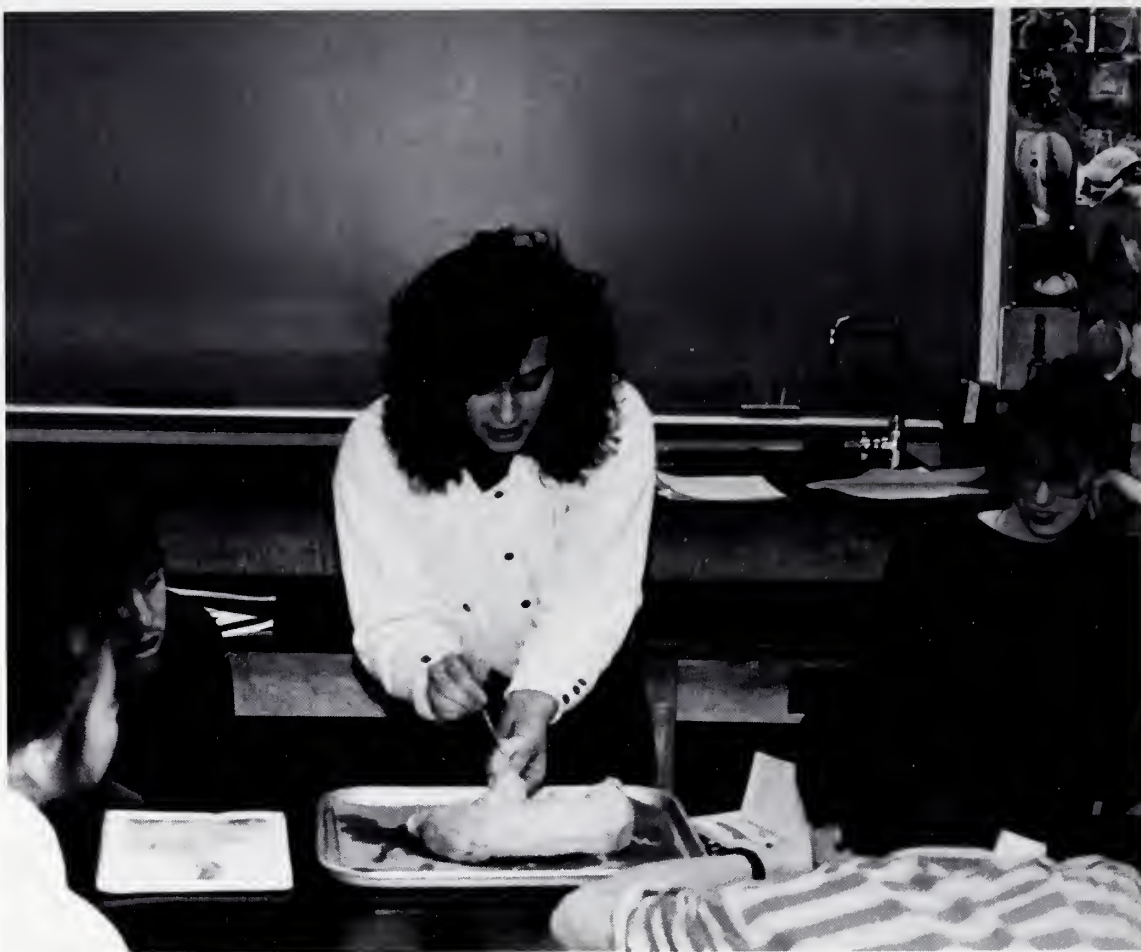

Students interested in going on to college prepare themselves by taking the PSAT.

Mr. Will Henderson helps one of his students while Leanne Thomas looks over a possible selection.

In the school parking lot, Junior Jeff Soper demonstrates some fancy maneuvers in skateboarding.

Fixing a tire on a bike was a simple task as explained by Junior Doug Cook.

In speech class Senior Cleo Nguyen does a caricature of Senior Paul Flan-dermeyer.

Speech Class

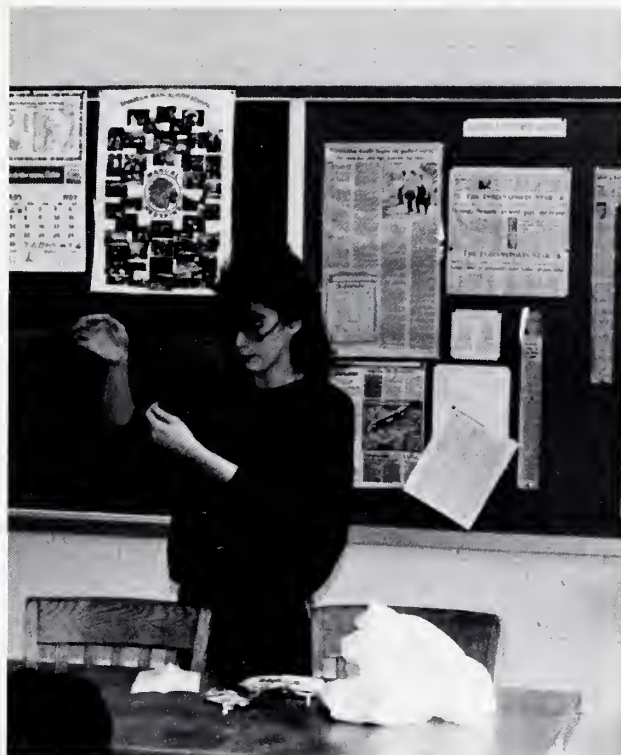

Speech class was probably one of the most dreaded electives in the English department, but it was also one of the most popular. Juniors and seniors in speech class worked hard to perfect their public speaking skills.

The variety of speaking situations in this class helped students to gain confidence and have some fun at the same time. The speaking assignments included demonstration speeches, commercials, and dramatic reading.

Speech was taught by Mrs. Marilyn Dever. During the semester, the students were videotaped so that they could critique their speeches. The students also gave speeches in the mini-aud to approximate a more formal speaking situation.

By the end of the semester, most students in speech felt that they had accomplished much and were more confident about speaking before a group.

For his demonstration speech, Harold Hix, senior, explains the fine points of doing an oil change.

With his car jacked up, Senior Eddie Lyster shows his speech class the correct way to change a tire.

Senior Vickie Smith threads a needle as part of her speech about needlepoint.

Members of Mrs. Dever's speech class wear protective masks while Pat Brown, senior, gives his speech about arc welding.

Industrial Arts: It's for Everyone

Industrial design concerns the bringing together of art and technology for the design of products, usually utilitarian or commercial.

Mr. John Fox became the new head of the Industrial Technology department. Mr. Patrick Bauer joined the staff as a technical education teacher. Mr. Willie Maxwell became the new head of I.C.T.

During the year the Industrial Technology department has been putting their ideas to work. They looked forward to putting their ideas into computers to see what their finished product will look like. They are also expecting a robot this year.

Industrial technology not only dealt with building things, but it also included graphic communications, such as commercials and advertising. They also did some button making and photography.

Some of the classes studied electricity. Students took things apart to see what made certain parts work. Others worked on cars. They rebuilt transmissions and repaired other mechanical problems.

Mr. Fox would like to see more people sign up for the Industrial Arts classes. He stressed that they are no longer "For boys only!"

Not afraid to get her hands dirty, Junior Camino Mooney removes a brake caliper.

Standing under the car, Junior Scott Bow adjusts a ball joint.

Industrial technology teacher Mr. John Easley demonstrates how to use a reciprocating saw.

Under the watchful eye of Mr. Robert Hignite, Warren Slinkard, Errin McKinney, and Wayne Elsey repair a campus sidewalk.

Working on a scale drawing is Marcus Cook, junior.

In auto technology class, Dewayne Robinson puts push rods in a block.

Senior James Hopper gets hands-on experience in welding in an industrial technology class.

Physical Training

Physical education was a course required for graduation. Most students in physical education were freshmen. Besides the required courses, the department offered electives such as advanced physical education and weight lifting, or conditioning.

All classes stressed good physical conditioning. The basic physical education classes taught the fundamentals of many sports and gave students an opportunity to sharpen their physical skills.

The advanced classes were primarily for athletes. These classes provided more conditioning with emphasis on physical skills that the major sports required. Mr. Elwood McBride was head of the physical education department.

ROTC was an elective class for students with an interest in the military. In these classes the cadets learned marching, military rules and regulations, and discipline. The ROTC unit marched in the annual Veteran's Day Parade in November. They also participated in repelling drills at IUPUI. These classes were taught by Sgt. Bruce Blauvelt and Sgt. Thomas James.

There were three special groups that cadets could join. The Color Guard presented the colors at many home basketball games and other school functions. There was also a rifle team for cadets who were interested in marksmanship.

The Pathfinder trainees and the qualified Pathfinders were groups for cadets who participated in the field-training exercises of ROTC.

Volleyball is a sport that students enjoy playing in physical education classes.

Music, Music

The Manual Sound

Music, music, music is what one heard as he entered the Music Department at Manual. Classes in the department ranged from keyboard class to Band. During keyboard class, students learned to establish fingerings on the keyboard, learned to count, and play exercises. As department head, Mrs. Marilyn Bolin took on many tasks, including choir, Manualaires, and keyboard. During the day she also taught dance steps and played the piano to help students establish a good vocal range.

During band and other instrumental classes including percussion, Mr. Bruce Smith, band director helped students to learn the basics and techniques of an instrument through exercises and songs. Mrs. Kristin Morris was the accompanist for all the vocal music classes.

The relaxed atmosphere of the music department created a feeling of closeness for the students and a family environment with the teachers.

Sophomore Kevin Barber practices a song for an upcoming test in keyboard class.

Music department head Mrs. Marilyn Bolin checks papers for her keyboard class.

During orchestra class, Sophomore Petina Brown practices her cello.

Home Ec: Preparing for Tomorrow

The Home Economics Department offered a variety of classes to meet the needs and interests of students. Mrs. Frances Benson was the department chairman. Its classes gave students the basic skills they could use throughout life.

The courses offered included foods, clothing, needle art, and nutrition for the athlete, a mini-course.

In November students participated in a fashion show at Union Station in downtown Indianapolis. In December the clothing and needle art classes designed and made Christmas stockings, which were donated to the American Red Cross.

Students in foods classes prepared and served a brunch for teachers in the fall. They also prepared and served a variety of treats at the annual principal's Christmas tea.

Guest lecturer Mrs. Nancy Hawkins demonstrates a color test for a student in grooming class.

To avoid a mistake, Junior Consuella Coleman concentrates as she sews.

At a brunch for teachers, Julie Surface, senior, serves coffee to Mrs. Karen Busch, math teacher.

Carefully finishing the hem of her garment is Junior Debbie Maiden.

After preparing breakfast in foods class, Sophomore Denise Luster and Freshmen Wanda Pettigrew and Carlos Wilson sit down to eat.

Practicing the art of the manicure are Dawn Dillard and Antoinette Jessie, sophomores.

Planning For Success

The Guidance Department was responsible for helping the students plan their schedules so that they could meet their requirements and graduate on time. Mr. Jack Brown was the Director of Guidance and the senior counselor. All four counselors were available to students who needed to talk over a problem.

Mr. Ray Hendrick was the junior counselor. He also taught the S.A.T. Coaching class. Mrs. Rutha Sims was the sophomore. She served as co-chairperson of the FAME program.

New to Manual this year was Mrs. Janet Huck. She was the freshman counselor. She also was in charge of PASS and the At-Risk programs, two programs that helped students find success in high school.

Freshman counselor Mrs. Janet Huck confers with a parent to resolve a scheduling program.

Dean of Boys Mr. Gerald Root talks with a parent before he writes an admit for a student's absence.

While juniors take the PSAT test in the Media Center, Counselor Ray Hendrick makes sure things run smoothly.

As Director of Guidance, Mr. Jack Brown has many helpful booklets that students can use in planning beyond high school.

Working on the Yearbook

The Publications room first period was noisy, hectic and a little chaotic. This was the yearbook period, and there was much work to do.

The Editorial Board of Tracey Shrum, Renee Berry, Sherri Rees, and Tony Adams made the decisions about color, theme, and cover for the yearbook. Layouts were drawn, ads were sold, and deadlines were met.

In a more relaxed atmosphere than the usual classroom, the staff found out that publications was a lot of hard work. "We had an inexperienced staff, but they worked hard to produce a book of memories," commented Mrs. Louise Plummer, advisor.

Seniors Cheryl Jent and Erv Barron work on a layout for the club section of the yearbook.

Sophomores Sholonda Parrish and Jennifer Lyster listen to Mrs. Louise Plummer explain how to place pictures on a layout.

Booster Staff Keeps Students Informed

Putting the BOOSTER together may seem like fun, but it was also hard work. Julie Taylor, senior, was the editor, and Mrs. Kathryn Guignard was the advisor.

The work was easier this year because a computer printer was purchased with a grant from National Starch Company.

It was often hectic when deadlines drew near. Getting the story written and proofread was only part of the job. The stories were then put into the computer and the print out was sent to Alexander's Printing to be set in type.

After the copy was returned, it was time to proofread again and then paste up the paper.

When the finished papers arrived, they were folded and distributed to the students. For the editor and the staff, it was work, but seeing the finished paper gave them a sense of satisfaction.

Typing a story into the computer is newspaper reporter Amy Forey, senior.

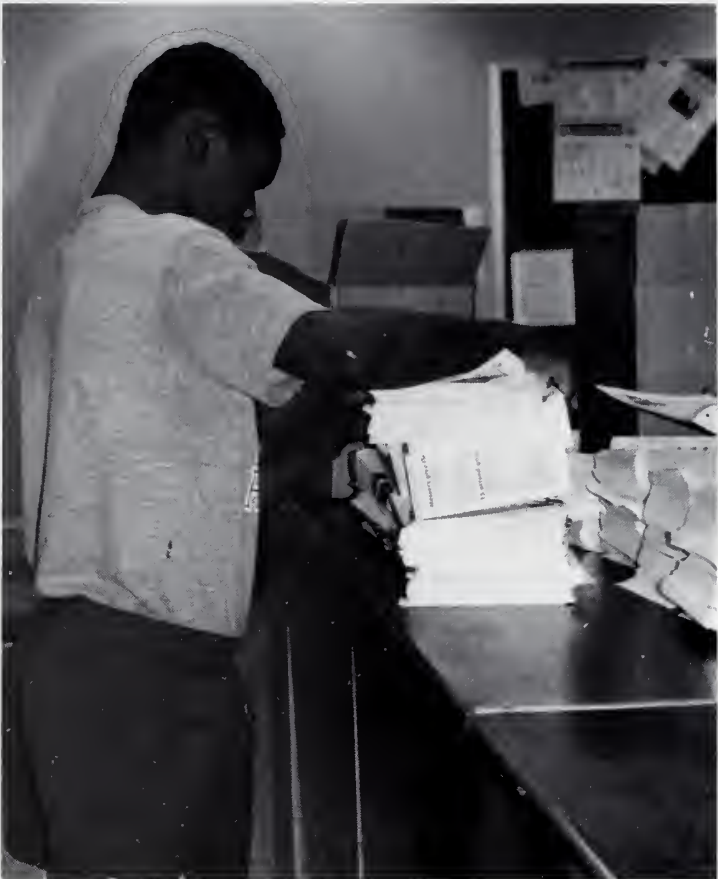

During paste-up, Senior Robin Spalding-Lyster and Kandyce Cooper check to see if a story will fit.

Using the light table to check the copy are Casey Kelley, senior, and Angie Stevenson, junior.

Folding the Boosters for distribution is Charles Roberson, sophomore.

Something for Everyone

Manual boasts a variety of clubs and extra-curricular activities. No matter what a student's interests might be, there is a club or activity available.

The Math Club and the Science Club combined to enjoy many activities together. The Math Club was sponsored by Mrs. Karen Busch, and Science Club was sponsored by Mrs. Mary Thomas.

These two clubs did many things together. One of their first activities of the year was an outing to Brown County State Park in Nashville on September 25. They went on a scavenger hunt and played football. Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Busch cooked hot dogs while the members enjoyed the park. In November the two clubs had a fossil hunt.

The clubs had several fund raisers to pay for their activities. They not only sold candy, but they also sold poinsettias at Christmas.

The most exciting event of the year was a trip to Chicago. The members were released from school on Friday, March 24. In Chicago they visited Shedd's Aquarium and the Museum of Science and Industry.

The Key Club was a service group sponsored by Mrs. Gayla Evans-Allen. This group sponsored the annual Homecoming Dance in October. Their service projects included collecting food during November. The food was then donated to the needy in our community.

The Chess Club was a group of boys who enjoy playing chess. The club was sponsored by Mr. Colin Hempel. The team competed against each other and also against clubs from other schools.

On their outing to Brown County Park, members of the Math and Science clubs show their ability to make a pyramid.

On Stage

Several groups were active participants in the Drama Department activities during the year. Thespian Troop 1492 was made up of drama students who had accumulated many hours of drama work. Sponsored by Mr. Fred Bennett, this group put on several plays during the year in the form of a snack theater.

Mask and Wig was a group for those just starting out in drama. Sponsored by Mrs. Desi Elliott, this group presented the play "An Over-Praised Season" at the evening of one-act plays in the spring.

The stage crew, under the direction of Mr. Carl Wright, was responsible for the behind-the-scenes work.

Senior Honor Clubs

Two of Manual's oldest clubs are Masoma and Roines. These two groups are senior honoraries.

After accepting new pledges in the fall, Roines had an active year. They sponsored a Roines Romp after a basketball game. Members Mike Chitwood, Chris Messer, Greg Wiley, and Tim Wiley assembled the Christmas wreath, a Manual tradition. Mr. Mike Swinford was the club sponsor.

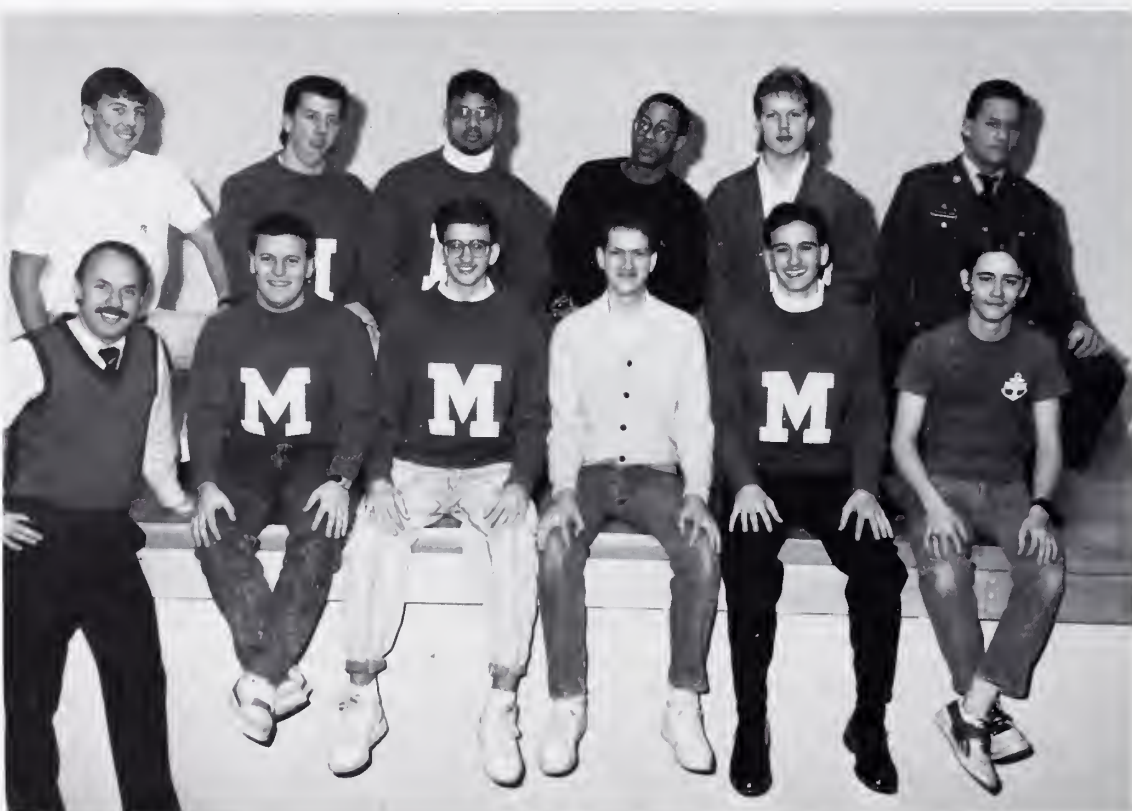

Masomas were busy throughout the year. The girls sold traditional Homecoming mums in the fall and they also sold bunnygrams at Easter. The group had several service projects during the year.

For the first time the club sent congratulatory notes to all girls who made Honor Roll in an attempt to encourage all girls to excel. Mrs. Louise Plummer was the club sponsor.

During pledge week, Roines pledges John Flandermeyer and James Stockton race around the campus.

Masoma pledges Kathy Lauerman, Angie Bills, Jenni Timbs, K-C McCombs, and Nikki Passios perform for the actives before school.

Service Groups

For those students who were interested in improving their school community, there were organizations at school to capture their interest.

Student Affairs Board was a group of representatives elected by each of the four classes. Under the leadership of Mrs. Marilyn Dever and Mr. Randy Smith, this group served their school community in many ways throughout the year. They made a Homecoming float, worked at Parents In Touch, organized Teacher Appreciation Week and operated a Bingo booth at the Pow Wow.

Brain Game, under the coaching of Mr. Jack Weaver, gave students with knowledge and quick recall a chance to represent their school against teams from other area high schools.

Dr. Robert Hignite was responsible for several groups that had one basic goal: to help students cope with the world in which they live. Natural Helpers, SADD, and Just Say No were three such groups.

Work Study Programs

Students Get A Head Start On the Job Market

If high school is supposed to prepare students to enter the work force, then the four work study programs helped a selected group of students get a head start toward that goal. The work study or cooperative programs allowed a student to receive high school credit for the on-the-job training they received. They also received specialized training in the classroom and help in locating a job.

Cooperative Office Education or COE was a part of the Business Education department. Under the direction of Miss Mazie Marlin, the girls in this program were trained to fill a variety of jobs in an office. These jobs included typing, filing, bookkeeping, and working as a secretary.

Distributive Education Clubs of America or DECA was also a part of the Business Education department. Mr. Randy Smith served as the coordinator of this program. Marketing was the main subject of this program. There were a variety of both service and sales jobs as a part of this program.

Industrial Cooperative Training or ICT was headed by Mr. Willie Maxwell, and Miss Sue McNeil helped students in the PVE program find jobs appropriate for their experience.

All four of these programs had one feature in common — the students got to leave school early to prepare for their jobs.

Academic Achievement Recognized

For more than thirty years, Manual's chapter of the National Honor Society has recognized those juniors and seniors who have attained a high academic standing.

Sponsored by Mrs. Toni Hammer, the club's goal was to meet the requirements of school service, character, and academics. Among the school service projects that the club was involved in were American Education Week and the Pow Wow.

To be eligible for membership into Quill and Scroll, a student must be a junior or senior, obtain a "B" average, and have been on the publications staff for at least one year. This club was sponsored by Mrs. Kathryn Guignard.

A new club brought to Manual by sponsor Mr. David Phillips was Project SET. This organization allowed prospective teachers to gain experience in the teaching field. One of the club's many activities during the year was to serve as assistants to teachers. This club was open to all students with an interest in being a teacher.

Cultural Clubs

The foreign language clubs provided students with an opportunity to socialize with others who shared some of their same interests. More importantly, these clubs gave their members a chance to learn more about the culture of the people whose language they were learning.

The Spanish Club was a very active group. Sponsored by Spanish teacher Miss Ann Manning, the club did several things together during the school year. One of the most popular activities was the annual trip to Chi-Chi's Restaurant in Greenwood, where students could enjoy some authentic Spanish dishes.

The French Club was sponsored by Mr. David Phillips, French teacher. The club had a candy sale to help pay for club activities.

Vocal Performers

For those who enjoyed singing, there were three performing groups they could join — Choir, Glee Club, and Manualaires. Not only did these classes provide a relaxing and enjoyable break from the academic classes, but they also taught students to read music and to breathe properly when singing.

Choir and Glee Club were both elective vocal classes. Wearing red robes, the choir, directed by Mrs. Marilyn Bolin, sang at two music department concerts. The Glee Club was an all-female singing group directed by Mr. Robert Fleck. They wore blue robes and sang at the Music department concerts at special Christmas programs.

Manualaires was a swing choir directed by Mrs. Bolin. To be in Manualaires, one must first audition. Because of the program they did, one must be able to both sing and dance. This group was the busiest of the vocal performing groups. The girls wore red dresses and the boys wore tuxedos with red cummerbunds. They were chosen to perform at the Christmas Special on Channel 13. They also performed at Union Station in downtown Indianapolis. Mrs. Kristen Morris was the accompanist for all three groups.

Vocalists gather around the piano to rehearse as Mrs. Kristen Morris plays the piano.

Rehearsing for the Christmas Special on Channel 13 are Manualaires Tim Hunter and Theresa Hinds.

Jim Shipman, Greg Wiley, Jenni Timbs, and Jennifer Moles, all Manualaires, practice one of their routines.

Instrumental Music

There were two performing groups in the instrumental division of the Music Department. The Marching Redskins were directed by Mr. Bruce Smith. Although the group was small, the members were high on school pride and enthusiasm.

Many hours were spent practicing. The members began their practice even before school started. They presented the half-time show at the home football games.

The band participated in several competitions. In September they performed at the Midwestern Marching Band Festival at Lebanon, Indiana.

The pep band also performed at home basketball games and at the annual Blizzard Concert and the spring music festival.

The orchestra was directed by Mrs. Marilyn Bolin, Music Department chairman. They performed on several occasions during the school year. The string section played Christmas music at a brief concert before school during the week before Christmas. The musicians in the orchestra took pride in their accomplishments.

Orchestra members Robert Benamon and Darren Dillingham, juniors, practice violin for an upcoming concert.

Brian Parton, junior, Angie Bills, senior, and Sam Eby, sophomore, perform in the pep band at a basketball game.

Clubs Offer Variety

Several special-interest clubs were available for students at Manual. They gave their members an opportunity to further their particular interests in a freer, more social atmosphere.

The A-V Club was sponsored by Mrs. Mary Rabourn. Many members of this club also worked in the Media Center during part of their school day. Their main activity was videotaping around school. They videotaped the home football and basketball games as well as all school programs. They also taped music department concerts and the Redskin Revue.

To make money for club activities, the A-V Club sold custom-designed buttons in the cafeteria several times during the year.

The Art Club was sponsored by art teacher Mrs. Terry Clark. This club met regularly to share their interest in art. As a group, they visited a nursing home and a museum. Their money-making project was a booth at the Pow Wow. The members painted colorful designs on the faces of anyone who wanted one.

Mrs. Frances Benson was the sponsor of the Home Economics Clubs. The members shared an interest in homemaking and self-improvement. At their meetings they had guest speakers on a variety of subjects that the girls were interested in.

School Spirit

The football players who spent long hours practicing were rewarded not only on the scoreboard, but also by their fans. Secret Admirers was a group of girls who decorated lockers, baked cakes and cookies, and showed their appreciation for the efforts of the players. Organized by Mr. Dennis Jackson, head football coach, the girls also made scrap books for their players.

The Pep Club was sponsored by Mrs. Rutha Sims. Students formed a cheer block at basketball games. With the help of the cheerleaders, they shouted their team to victory.

Senior Secret admirers K-C McCombs and Michelle Hager imitate their football players.

Sports Club

Two of the clubs at Manual that consist mainly of athletes are fellowship of Christian Athletes, or FCA, and Block M.

FCA was a group that was designed to help athletes grow spiritually. The sponsor of the group was Athletic Director Ray Schultz. The president was Wayne Elsey, senior, and the vice-president was Nancy Pruett, junior. To raise money, the group made and sold spirit ribbons for all students to wear to the basketball games. The money raised was used to send some members to an FCA summer camp.

Another athletic club at Manual was Block M. To become a member of this club, one must earn a letter by playing any varsity sport for at least one season.

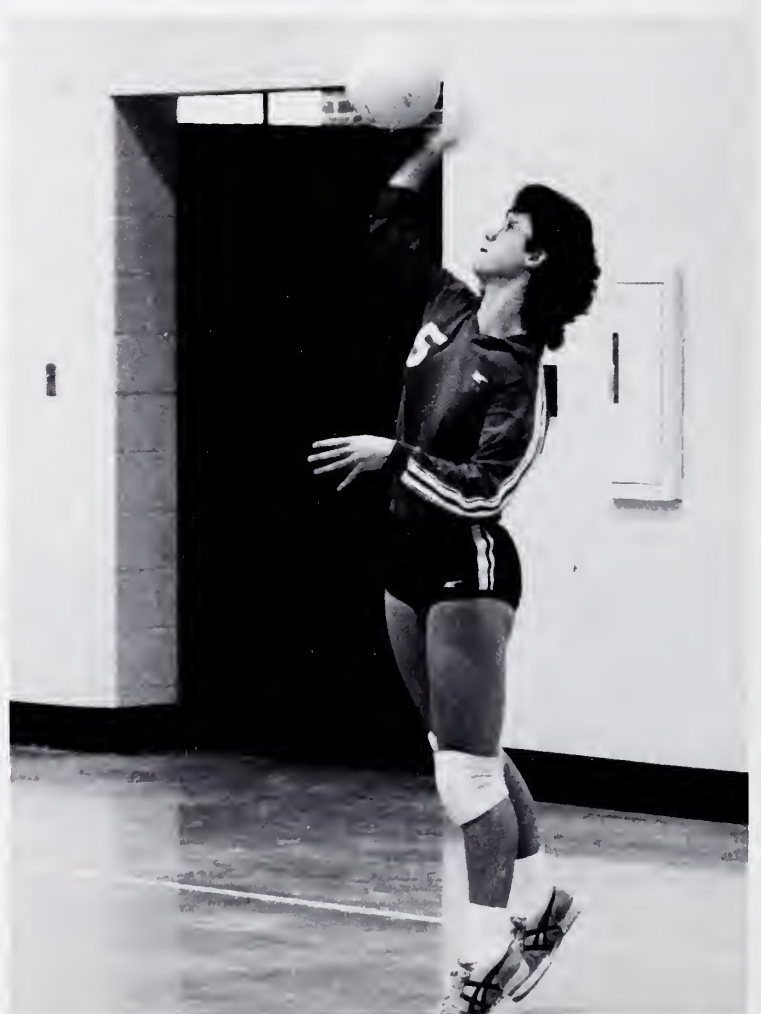

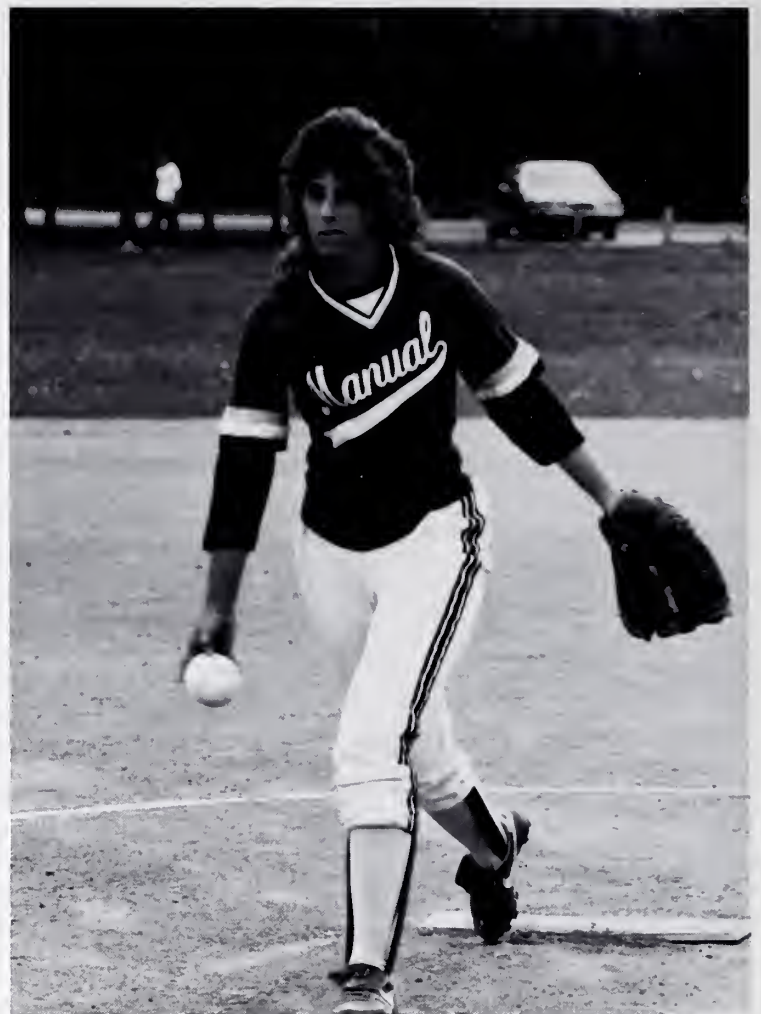

A new club at Manual this year was the Archery Club. This club met in the morning before school. It was sponsored by science teacher Mr. Mike Swinford.

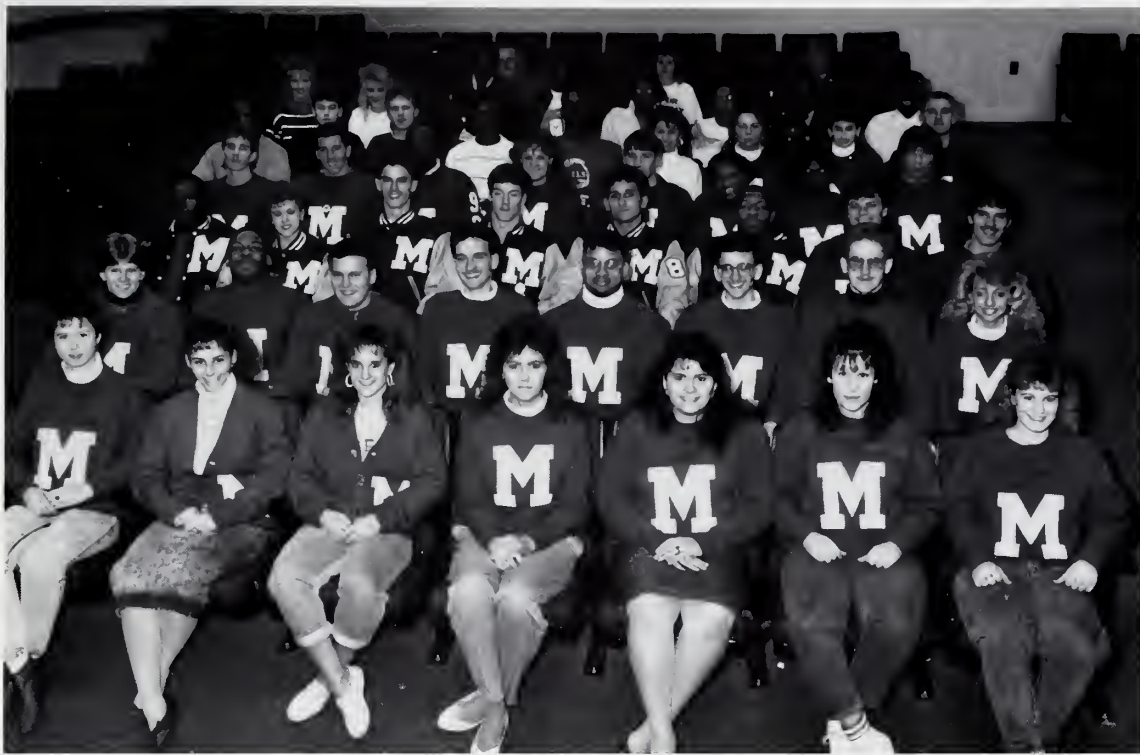

Varsity baseball player Mike Chitwood is also an active member of FCA and Block M Club.

Ready to deliver the pitch is Deanna Long, senior and member of FCA and Block M Club.

Hard Luck Season

With no home field advantage, the baseball team struggled and faltered throughout the season, finishing at 7-22. Their best performance came in the city tourney. The 'Skins won the first game against Northwest. In the next game they narrowly defeated Chardard 5-4, placing fourth in the city.

Sophomore Doug Warren summed up the season by saying, "Sometimes we played with really good effort, but at other times we played like we didn't know what we were doing."

The season was not without some bright spots. MVP was awarded to pitcher and short-stop Jimmy Saylor, senior. First baseman Joey Burgess won the Golden Glove Award. Saylor, Rich Majors, Chad Majors, and Dusty Church all ended the season with a 300 batting average. Senior Rich Majors praised his team's effort. "The team had spirit," he said. "No matter what the score was, we still enjoyed playing and gave 100%. We didn't know what the word 'quit' was."

The reserve team had several freshman players who showed great promise. The experience and playing time of this season should put them in a good position to be ranked high next season.

To score a quick out, Doug Warren, sophomore, easily catches the line drive.

To plan their strategy, the infielders confer on the pitcher's mound.

After rounding third base, Jerald Richardson, senior, is waved home by Coach Rosenstihl.

Hurler MVP Jimmy Saylor, senior, watches the ball all the way to the plate.

Varsity Baseball: Row one: Jerald Richardson, Dustin Church, Michael Chitwood, Joey Morelock, Paul Miles. Row two: Darren Fishburn, Joey Burgess, Jimmy Saylor, Doug Warren, Randy Phipps, Richie Majors, Coach Rosenstihl.

With a strong swing, Jason Smith, sophomore, connects for a base hit.

The catcher readies a throw to second after Russell Stout, junior, slides safely into home.

A Season Full of Surprises

Although the girls' varsity softball team started off the season with four straight losses, they made a comeback by winning two straight. Their longest winning streak was only three games. Eventually the wins here and there added up to a 10-9 season.

One highlight of the season for Nancy Pruett was her grand slam that led the Lady 'Skins to a victory over the Chatard Trojans. Reflecting on both the reserve and varsity teams, Coach Mike Swinford said, "I thought the girls were very good this year. Their skill level was very high. They also disciplined themselves well throughout the season. All in all, the teams had a very good season. Next year will be even better."

Although the reserve softball team's record showed a losing season of 1-9, the talented girls gained some much needed experience to play varsity ball the next year.

Juniors Nancy Pruett and Jeanette Palmer summed up the season. They remarked, "We thought the season went well; with a little improvement the team was good. It was also a lot of fun."

Senior Kathy Mangus added, "Although we had a slow start, we ended up with a winning season. We also gained a lot of experience."

To make another out for the team, Senior Kathy Mangus quickly moves to the ball.

Scoring easily from third base, Deanna Long, senior, posts another run against Chatard.

Reaching to make the catch at first base, Jeanette Palmer, junior, makes another out for Chatard.

To stop the action against Chatard, K-C McCombs, senior, keeps her foot on the bag as she catches the ball for the out.

With plenty of time to stop the runner, catcher Patsy Pierce, junior, makes the play at home.

While keeping his eye on his team, Coach Rick Hustedt checks the scorebook with Senior Tracey Shrum.

From the coaching box, Coach Mike Swinford watches the action of the J-V team.

Tracksters Win

"Runners, take your marks," led the way to yet another winning season for the 1988 Redskin track team. Under the direction of Coach Al Pike, they finished the season with nine wins and four losses, with a strong showing in the city finals.

After defeating their first six opponents, the boys slipped and lost three meets. The first losses were to Ben Davis and Columbus in a tri-meet and then to rival Southport. After a disappointing finish in the Southport relays, the 'Skins went on the warpath starting with a 72-55 victory over Cathedral.

The team then traveled to Broad Ripple where they defeated the Rockets 65-62. They capped off their regular season with a 68-59 victory over Howe.

On May 12 at the IUPUI track, the 'Skins varsity team took thirteen men to the city finals where John Hinton took fourth in both the 100 and 200, and Scott Davis had third in the high jump and fourth in the pole vault.

Glenn Bundy placed fourth and fifth in the 1600 and 800 while Tom Sumner and Gaku Furuichi ran in the 3200. Doug Williams was fifth in the city in the pole vault and Charles Bredl ran in the high hurdles.

James Cole had a great day as he placed fourth in the shot put and third in the discus, with a personal best throw of 151 ft. 11 inches.

Girls Break School Records

There are two things that are really dreaded by most athletic teams — youth and inexperience. Athletes who have experience have more confidence in themselves and in their teammates. With experience, athletes learn how to react under pressure. "The girls' track team was both young and inexperienced, but with hard work they developed into a winning team," stated Coach Dorothy Powell.

From the first day of practice in March, the girls ran laps, worked on conditioning, lifted weights, and practiced their individual events.

As a result of individual effort, several school records were broken. Junior Maggie Huskins broke the school record for the mile, while Phinesha Walker, Renee Berry, Shawna Mayberry, and Maggie Huskins broke the school record for the 1600-meter relay.

The team ended the season at 4-8. Only one girl, Maggie Huskins, qualified for the sectionals. "The season went well considering we had a young team," commented Renee Berry, sophomore. "If everyone returns for next season, we should be much more competitive," she added.

Junior Maggie Huskins was named MVP and should be a strong competitor next season. According to the assistant coaches Mrs. Susan Moore and Mr. Tim Boykin, the girls worked hard and worked together as a team, and that is what participating in high school sports is all about.

With strength and concentration, senior Peggy Benamon hurls the discus in a meet against Northwest.

Clearly finishing ahead of her nearest competitor, Shawna Mayberry has the look of a confident runner.

Showing good form, Sophomore Kim Rosa easily clears the hurdle.

With a good lead over her opponent, Senior Ronna Nott leaps over the hurdle.

A Tough Season

Although the golf team ended the season at 1-14, Coach Pack Craig was very proud of the boys on his team. They worked very hard to improve their individual skills. Craig had positive comments about his team. He is looking forward to a much stronger team for the 1989 season. The team was both young and inexperienced in competition; some members had never played golf before.

"Golf is my favorite sport, but we did not have a very good season. We were young and inexperienced. I think that we should be one of the best teams in I.P.S. this year," commented Sam Breedlove, sophomore.

Frank England, sophomore, was the most improved golfer. Looking forward to a much-improved season, MVP Gary Powell, junior, remarked, "We had dependable people who are getting better each year."

Showing good form on the follow-through after his swing is Gary Powell, junior.

Juniors Shine

The varsity football team began the season with a strong showing over Brebeuf 41-9. Then things went downhill with losses to Roncalli, Washington, and Broad Ripple. Senior Paul Treadwell remarked, "We started off good this year; spirits were high and we all had great expectations for the season."

The Redskins then fell to Perry Meridian, Ritter, and Southport. At a pep session just before the Homecoming game with Tech, Coach Dennis Jackson and the seniors on the team promised a Redskin Homecoming victory. They kept their promise by soundly defeating the Tech Titans 22-8.

In the first round of the sectionals, Manual avenged a regular season loss by defeating Broad Ripple 8-6. The 'Skins lost in the second round to a powerful, state-ranked Ben Davis team.

Juniors James Cole and Roland Terrell were selected to the 1988-89 Indianapolis Star All-City Team. John Flandermeyer, Richie Majors, Ken Riggins, Paul Treadwell and Charles Roberson were named to the Star All-City Honorable Mention team.

Commenting about individual performances, Coach Jackson said, "These honors are a tribute to these young men in particular, and to their team and Manual High School in general."

A Season Full of Surprises

Bump! Set! Spike! Those three words were heard by the girls' volleyball team a lot this season. By the looks of their record this year, all of the yelling paid off. The girls' varsity team had a record of 12-11 this year — a big improvement over last year's record of 5-13. Varsity head coach Kate Lawrie stated, "I feel it was the best in several

This was the last season for three devoted and talented seniors. Coach Lawrie remarked, "The three seniors leaving are Amy Striggo, Michelle Hager, and Tracey Shrum. Amy Striggo probably holds the best serving percentage of any varsity team going back to the early seventies. Michelle Hager's leaping, spiking, and blocking ability surprised the team pleasantly. Tracey Shrum was the team's number one setter off the bench. She was a tremendously hard and dedicated worker throughout her four years on the squad."

The reserve team went a promising 6-8, while the freshman team had a rough season of 0-5. The varsity team also placed third of seven teams in the first IPS Invitational, which they hosted.

Summing up the entire season, Coach Lawrie stated, "If the girls would dedicate themselves to being the best next year, I believe they very well could be!"

As Tracey Shrum, senior, digs the ball out of the net, Junior Jenny Leak backs her up.

Team Effort

The boys' cross country team was both young and inexperienced; there were no seniors on the team. The hard work and teamwork enabled them to post a winning season. They finished the season with seven wins and five losses. They finished second in the Indianapolis Public Schools conference. They placed tenth out of twelve teams in the sectional.

There were some bright spots in the team's performance this season. At the Washington Invitational, each member earned a medal.

Coach Al Pike, who coached the cross country teams from 1967-1974, returned as head coach this year. Although Pike was pleased with the team's successful season, he felt the team would have been even better if it had been more experienced. He believed the team was so successful because each member worked hard and pushed himself.

Keeping a sure and steady pace, Junior Mohammed States positions himself for the finish.

With the finish line in sight, Ted Cooley, junior, comes on strong.

With a good time, Junior Jeff Wilson crosses the finish line.

All alone, Joe Kortz, junior, finishes a cross country meet with Washington.

Team Minus One

The girls' cross country team, for the second year, was an incomplete team according to the IHSAA rules. A team must have five members, but the girls' cross country team had only four members.

Despite this handicap, there were some outstanding performances. At the Washington Invitational, Junior Maggie Huskins broke the school record when she ran the 2.4 mile with a time of 15:88. Huskins also placed fourth in the city tourney with a time of 16:46.

The girls competed against Broad Ripple, Arlington, Tech, Ritter, Washington, and Howe. Coach Sue Moore praised the efforts of the girls and encouraged others to join them next year.

In a three-way meet with Washington and Tech, the girls leave the starting line.

Girls' Cross Country: Melvina Whitley, Crystal Bridgewater, Coach Moore, Maggie Huskins, Angel Shadday.

Junior Crystal Bridgewater stays ahead of her nearest opponent.

Junior Melvina Whitley keeps a good pace during the middle of the race so she can finish with a good time.

Team Makes City

When the 1988-89 wrestling season began, it was filled with great expectations for both the team and the coaches. Mr. Jim Phillips took over as head varsity wrestling coach. He had twenty years of coaching to his credit including coaching in the Pan-Am games. The two assistant coaches were Mr. John Roberts and Corey Vaughn. With several returning lettermen, prospects for the season were bright.

The team's goal for the season was to make it to the city. The team reached its goal: no Manual wrestler entering either the freshman or junior varsity tournaments finished less than fourth place.

The junior varsity team placed second. Junior Montreal Harrell was city champion at 152 pounds. Others to place were Donovan Snider, John Russell, David Johnson, Eric Brown, and Sean Norris.

The freshmen entered only five wrestlers. They came in third and were led by 145-pound city champion Jamie Brickley. Other freshmen who placed were Sean Deppe, William Johnson, Thomas Bible, and Keith Jordan.

The future looks very promising for this talented team.

Sectional Runner-up

The boys' varsity basketball team got off to a slow start. They suffered defeats to Broad Ripple and Cathedral; both teams were ranked in the city. They also lost to Anderson, a team ranked in the state top 20.

In December the team scored its first victory with a 55-53 win over Roncalli and a 50-36 win over Southmont.

This was a rebuilding year for Coach Fred Belser. There were only two seniors on the team — Tyrone Maxey and Jimmy Saylor. However, Coach Belser spoke optimistically about his team. "I think this group of young players is going to get Manual back on top again," he commented.

The Skins posted victories over rival Perry Meridian 68-55 and also over Arlington 64-51. Outstanding performances were turned in by Michael Helm, Charles Roberson, and Keith Ford.

Inexperience Hurts Team

The win-loss record of an athletic team is not always an accurate measurement of the team's work, effort, and dedication. This was the case with the 1988-89 girls' varsity basketball team.

It was both a young and an inexperienced team. However, the work, effort, and dedication were not enough to give the Lady Redskins a winning season.

The girls knew at the beginning of the season that they had a rough schedule and that winning would not be easy; however, they were determined to work together and learn to be a team.

Nancy Pruett, junior, was named MVP. Outstanding performances were also turned in by Dana Wright and Enteece Rudolf. Mr. Rick Hustedt was the reserve coach and Mr. Tim Boykin was the varsity coach.

Homecoming Week — High on Tradition

Spirit Week '88, the week of Homecoming, proved to be another spirit-filled week. One of the first competitive activities was the hall decorating contest. Freshmen were to decorate the first floor; sophomores, the second; juniors, the third; and seniors, the cafeteria. In a very close race, the seniors edged out the sophomores.

Many clubs took part in the weeks' activities. The Senior Class was responsible for the candidate platform for the Homecoming royalty. The cheerleaders sold spirit buttons, and the Masomas sold Homecoming mums. The SAB constructed the Homecoming float; the National Honor Society decorated the bulletin board, and the Key Club sponsored a poster contest and a dance.

There were several dress-up days during the week. Both students and faculty were encouraged to take part and show their spirit. There was red and white day, button day, and the very popular football player and cheerleader day.

On Thursday before the big game, there was an all-school pep session. To acquaint the freshmen with the yells and the school song, both cheerleaders and the band participated. The highlight of the pep session was the chance for the senior football players to "take the mic." Each senior seemed to relish his opportunity to talk to the students. Each player encouraged the students and the faculty to attend the game and promised a victory. They kept their promise by defeating the Tech Titans 22-6.

On Friday evening before the game, the PTO sponsored a fish fry, another Homecoming tradition. Seniors distributed helium-filled, red and white balloons to fans as they arrived.

Following another Homecoming tradition of honoring selected alumni, Mr. Ray Schultz, Athletic Director, invited all alumni football players to return. They were introduced prior to the opening kick-off.

After the game, the Key Club sponsored a Homecoming dance in the school cafeteria.

High-spirited fans fill the stadium and await the opening kick-off against Tech.

Returning alumni football players were recognized prior to the Homecoming game.

During Spirit Week Mrs. Marilyn Bolin, Music department chairman, dressed as a cheerleader.

Cheerleaders Lisa Otero, Tina Sloan, Becky Arnold and Cassie Kelly fire up the fans.

Quarterback Richie Majors, senior, hands off to James Cole, junior, for a first down.

Homecoming Candidates: Charles Hicks, Mike Chitwood, Jimmy Saylor, Wayne Elsey, King James Stockton, Richie Majors, Papoose Scott Cross, Kristie Schwert, Papoose Christine Benson, Cleo Nguyen, Queen K-C McCombs, Stacey Morse, Deanna Long, Carrie Groce, Jada Brimmage.

We've Got Spirit

Combine enthusiasm, school spirit, lots of energy, agility, poise, and a big smile. These are the main ingredients for being a cheerleader.

The 1988-89 cheerleaders were chosen in May after a week of practice and a try-out session. After being chosen, the work had just begun!

Three squads of cheerleaders were busy throughout the year getting the fans involved in the games and encouraging the players to perform at their peak.

During the summer the varsity and reserve squads attended the International Cheerleading Foundation at Franklin College. Both squads qualified for the National Competition in Tennessee. The varsity and reserve squads were sponsored by Mrs. Kim McFall and Mrs. Sandy Schultz.

The freshman squad was chosen after competition try-outs in September. Their sponsor was Mrs. Peggy Stuart.

The Boostermen joined the cheerleaders during basketball season. They perfected several pyramids, throws, and lifts to add to the excitement of the game.

The cheerleaders sold spirit buttons, candy-grams, and candy bars in order to raise money to buy new uniforms.

Varsity cheerleaders Deanna Long, Dawn Huff, and Lisa Otero get the fans into the game.

Faculty Cheerleaders: Dorothy Powell, Marilyn Bolin, Peggy Stuart, Joyce Cook, Karen Busch, Sharon DeLong, Kim McFall, Elizabeth Copher, Tina Hart. Alumni: Jerry Peters, Phil Warren, Phil Steele, Steve Schults, Steve Dietz. Faculty: Ray Schultz, Richard Flis, Carl Whiteman, Randy Smith, David Gish, Robert Swinford, John Deal.

The faculty cheerleaders yell to encourage the faculty team, but their efforts didn't bring a win for their team.

Pack The Place

During the 1988-89 boys' basketball season, several special nights were planned. These nights included Eli Lilly Guest Night, Academic Achievement Night, and Rich and Famous Night.

On Friday, January 13, it was "Pack the Place" Night. This was an evening to get students and faculty involved in an attempt to improve school spirit. During the school day, each student received a "Pack the Place" ribbon that had a number on the back. Mike Chitwood, Mike Robinson, and Regina Cole won prizes with their ribbon during the evening.

The highlight of the evening was the half-time game between an alumni team and the faculty team. The alumni team defeated the faculty by a score of 21-7. There was also a faculty cheerleading squad. They enthusiastically yelled and encouraged their team, but not enough to win.

Referees for the game were Principal Gene Austin and Mr. Jerry Cosby, editor of "The Spotlight," an area newspaper.

Seniors Become Teachers for a Day

Turnabout Day has been a long-standing tradition at Manual. During American Education Week, seniors became teachers for a day. They planned the lessons and taught all of the teacher's classes for the day. Most turnabouts were treated to lunch by the teacher who chose them.

In the afternoon there was a tea for the turnabouts and teachers. Sponsored by the PTO, the tea gave turnabouts a chance to compare their day as a teacher.

"It was a fun experience and one I definitely won't soon forget," commented Nikie Passios, a turnabout for Mr. Jack Brown, Director of Guidance.

Going over the plans for the day are Julie Taylor, senior turnabout, and Mrs. Kathryn Guignard, English teacher.

Theresa Denny, turnabout for Mr. Robert Fleck, music teacher, directs a glee club class.

Senior Tim Wiley, acting as principal for the day, feels right at home at Mr. Gene Austin's desk.

Looking over her assignments for the day is Cleo Nguyen, turnabout in the Art department for Mrs. Kay Clay.

Senior Angie Bills, turnabout for Mr. William Fisher, math teacher, reviews the lesson she will teach.

Senior Stacie Morse, turnabout for Mr. Pack Craig, likes taking control of the class.

Dean of Boys Gerald Root shows Senior Kim Phelps how he keeps records.

These Masoma pledges enjoy the activities of pledge week.

Roines pledges gather on campus before school to do the bidding on the actives.

After four years, these students earned the right to wear traditional armbands on Senior Day.

These seniors in an Industrial Technology classroom enjoy a relaxed moment before class begins.

Senior Steven Reid enjoys the tea for teachers and seniors on Turnabout Day.

Cleo Nguyen, senior, gets into the spirit of homecoming by imitating a football player.

Mr. Dennis Jackson and Shannon Goode, senior, enjoy a less serious moment in school.

Cheerleader Stacy Morse, senior, keeps her eye on the action on the floor, hoping for a win.

Tim Wile and Erv Barron, seniors, perform in a Redskin Revue act.

Casey Kelley, senior, strikes a pose that catches the eye of the photographer.

For the first time, Manual played football in the Hoosier Dome. For seniors it was a special thrill.

Senior Tracey Shrum gets ready to serve an ace to her opponents.

Juniors Keep Traditions Alive

When the junior class officers were elected in the fall, little did they realize just how busy their year would be. The class elected Nancy Pruett, president; Michele McFarland, vice-president; Jenni Spencer, secretary; and Jonette Scott, treasurer. Since Mr. Willard Henderson, class sponsor, was absent much of the year, other teachers helped the class officers plan the year's activities.

Traditionally the junior class is responsible for decorating the school Christmas tree and the main office. With the help of Mr. Tim Boykin and Mrs. Evelyn Potter, this year's class kept up the tradition.

Juniors were honored for their efforts in several ways. James Cole and Roland Terrell were named to the Indianapolis Star's All-City Football team. Scott Bow's design was chosen for the official IPS Christmas card. In November, Shannon Allen was named student of the month.

Ten juniors earned academic letters: Shannon Allen, Eileena Coats, Doug Cook, Kenneth Hanna, Sandra Hawley, Jennifer Leak, Deborah Maiden, Michele McFarland, Jennifer Spencer, and Yolanda Vaughn.

For most juniors, the most exciting event of the year was the Junior Prom. It was held on May 13, at the Indianapolis Convention Center. The class chose blue and white as their prom colors and "Groovy Kind of Love" as their prom song.

Sophomores Show School Spirit

What two things are on the mind of nearly every sophomore — getting a driver's license and finishing the year to become a junior.

Since the sophomore class does not have class officers, there were no sophomore activities as such. This did not stop the sophomores from getting involved in things around school.

During Spirit Week, the sophomores patiently and artistically decorated the second floor hall. They also hung crepe paper strips from the ceiling. Their efforts received a second place in the judging. Mrs. Desiree Elliott's sophomore FA room won the Christmas door decorating contest.

There were many activities that the sophomores became a part of — sports, clubs, cheerleading and musical groups. For some sophomores, this was the year to give serious thought to making plans for the future. This included taking the PSAT to assess their preparedness for college.

Most sophomores agreed that this year was much better than their freshman year, but they held high hopes for becoming upperclassmen.

Freshmen Find Fears Unfounded

"High School! We finally made it to high school!" "How will I ever find my way around this building?" "How many times will I be called 'Freshie'?" These were some of the fears that most freshmen shared as the opening day of school drew near.

On the first day of high school, most freshmen realized that many of their fears were unfounded. "My first impression of high school was pretty positive," said Freshman Tanya Coonce. "It made me feel good about getting older." Freshman Matthew Harrell found that his first impression was wrong. "I didn't like it at first; I love it now!" he commented. Freshman Gina Allen also changed her feelings early in the year. "I thought it was going to be a whole new beginning," she said, "but all it was was a continuation."

Not everyone in the Class of 92 was optimistic. Some didn't like high school at all. Many shared Melissa Wineinger's disappointment. "It was alright, but I didn't like the idea of staying until 3:30 when I was used to getting out at 2:30," she remarked.

Within a few weeks the freshmen adjusted to their new building and their new teachers. There were sports, clubs, cheerleading, and musical groups to become a part of. Being in high school helped most freshmen to feel more grown up. Sonja Green expressed what many freshmen felt. "The best part of being a freshman is having only three more years of school."

Oh! How Embarrassing!

Teachers are accustomed to handling the routine situations that arise in the classroom, but sometimes a situation arises that requires an extra amount of patience or quick-thinking. An unusual or an embarrassing moment will not soon be forgotten.

Sometimes a teacher has taught the wrong lesson. There were days when buttons popped off, seams ripped, or pants snagged. A few teachers experienced rather unusual incidents in their teaching careers.

"I was teaching an Algebra 3 class and one student started to talk, I called his name and threw an eraser at him. He stood up at the same time I threw the eraser. It hit him right below the belt. The chalk from the eraser stayed on his pants. The whole class, including myself, could not stop laughing. I was very embarrassed especially since the chalk would not come off his pants," confessed math teacher Mrs. Karen Busch.

English Department chairman Mrs. Toni Hammer commented, "When I started teaching at Manual, very short skirts were the style. One day I started writing at the top of the board and the whole class suddenly completely quieted. I realized what was happening, stopped, and also stopped wearing short skirts."

Miss Tina Hart, special education teacher, would not want to relive an incident she had at Tech. "A friend sent me a surprise singing birthday-gram. He was dressed as Superman and sang to me in front of my class. If that wasn't embarrassing enough, he was fat and looked very strange. As he walked across campus, he was picked up and handcuffed by security because they thought he was a nut case. When he finished singing, he told me he was obligated to give me a birthday kiss. I said, 'No way!' As he leaned over, three of my students rushed him and threatened to kill him if he touched me. They chased him out of the room and down the hall. The boys had to be contained so Superman could get off campus safely."

Mr. Al Pike related, "About twenty years ago, while teaching physical ed., I was demonstrating hurdling techniques when I hooked my toe on the hurdle. I went head over apple-cart on the gym floor. The class had a good laugh and then forgot it, but my friend, the late Leroy Heminger, never let me live it down."

What to do During the Summer?

Have you ever wondered how teachers spend their summers? Many believe that teachers have it made with 2½ months of paid vacation. That is not the way it was for most teachers at Manual.

Many teachers spent their summers working. Mr. Dennis Jackson, Mrs. Peggy Stuart, Mrs. Shirley Lynch, and Mr. Ray Hendrick usually taught summer school. Some teachers worked at something other than teaching during the summer. Mr. Wayne Spinks, art teacher, sold carpet at Sears. Mr. John Roberts, industrial technology teacher, worked as a general contractor.

Travel was a popular way for some teachers to spend their summers. Physical education teacher Miss Kate Lawrie said, "I usually vacation in Florida, clean house, play golf and sometimes work part time."

Mrs. Toni Hammer, Mrs. Kathy Guignard, Mrs. Janet Weaver, and Miss Tina Hart all preferred to do some traveling during the summer.

Some teachers were glad for the chance to spend more time with their family. Counselor Mrs. Janet Huck commented, "I go to my children's ball games, read and work at the Student Leadership Institute at

I.U." Math teacher Mrs. Peggy Stuart replied, "When I'm not teaching summer school or taking graduate courses, I spend time with my children."

English teacher Mrs. Barbara Rice spends her summer "riding horses, training my filly, and trying to keep my two children from getting bored."

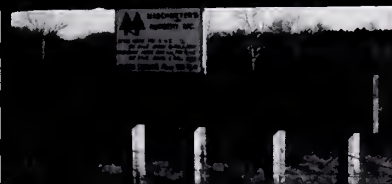

For most teachers, summer was a time to relax, catch up on work, read, and just enjoy life.

Acknowledgements

In this yearbook, we have tried to capture our year. The happy moments, the fun times, the disappointments, and the hard work are all recorded here. Sometimes it was frustrating and at other times it was hectic. It was our desire to be both fair and accurate.

We have many people to thank for helping us put this yearbook together. We thank Mr. Larry Glaze, our Herff-Jones representative for his helpful suggestions and encouragement; Root Photographers, our official senior photographers; Mr. Dick Dickus, for candid and sports pictures; Mr. John Higgins and Inter-State Studios, our underclass photographer.

We also thank the entire faculty, staff, administration, and students for supplying the information for our book.
